With this issues paper, the Commission is seeking views in relation to the following:

1. Whether the 4 principles tentatively identified by the Commission (that legislation should be comprehensive, up-to-date, freely available and underpinned by defined legislative publishing standards) are sufficient for the purposes of this project (see page 52).
2. What initiatives should be taken to produce comprehensive law and how such initiatives should be approached (see page 54).
3. What practices should be employed to enable the ongoing production of current versions of legislation (see page 64).
4. How legislation might be published to assist those accessing the law, including by making best use of information and communications technology (see page 69).
5. How best to develop and maintain effective standards to underpin accessibility of legislation (see page 80).
