The clerical staff for 1995 were Ms. Martina Burke, Ms. Mary Teresa Faherty and Ms. Martina McGuire.

4. Functions of the Commission

The functions of the Commission are to keep the law under review, to undertake examinations and conduct research with a view to reforming the law, and to formulate proposals for law reform.

5. First Programme for Law Reform

After its establishment, the Commission prepared a programme for the examination of different branches of the law, which was subsequently approved by the Government. Copies of it were laid before both Houses of the Oireachtas on 4 January 1977.

In addition to reporting on matters in the programme, it is also the function of the Commission, at the request of the Attorney General, to undertake an examination of and conduct research in relation to any particular branch or matter of law whether or not it is included in the programme, and if so requested, to formulate and submit to the Attorney General proposals for its reform.

By 31 December 1995, the Commission had formulated and submitted to the Taoiseach or the Attorney General 50 Reports containing proposals for reform of the law, as well as 11 Working Papers, 9 Consultation Papers, 16 Annual Reports and An Examination of the Law of Bail.

6. Reports on Topics in the Commission's First Programme for Law Reform

Between 1987 and 1994, the Commission published the following Reports on topics contained in the Commission's First Programme:

Service of Documents Abroad re Civil Proceedings - The Hague Convention;

The Rule Against Hearsay in Civil Cases;

Recognition of Foreign Adoption Decrees;

Oaths and Affirmations;

The Hague Convention on Succession to the Estates of Deceased Persons;
and

United Nations (Vienna) Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods.

7. Requests by the Attorney General

On 6 March 1987, the then Attorney General requested the Commission to examine and research certain areas of law and submit to him proposals for reform in relation to the following matters:

- (1) Conveyancing law and practice in areas where this could lead to savings for house purchasers;
- (2) Sexual offences generally, including, in particular, the law relating to rape and the sexual abuse of children;
- (3) The law relating to sheriffs, the collection of taxes and debt collection;
- (4) The law relating to compensation in personal injuries cases, including, in particular:
 - (a) provision for periodic payments and the making of provisional awards; and
 - (b) the Statute of Limitations in cases of latent personal injury; and
- (5) The following aspects of criminal law:
 - (a) sentencing policy;
 - (b) indexation of fines;
 - (c) confiscating the proceeds of crime; and
 - (d) whether there is a need to revise or up-date the law relating to the various offences which are still mainly governed by pre-1922 legislation, including, in particular, the laws relating to dishonesty, malicious damage and offences against the person.

In January 1989, the then Attorney General requested the Commission to undertake an examination of and conduct research into the law of defamation and contempt of court, and to formulate and submit to him proposals for reform in relation to these areas.

In March 1992, the then Attorney General made a similar request in respect of the law relating to occupiers' liability.

In February 1994, the then Attorney General requested the Commission to examine and research the law relating to bail. Although the Commission was asked for its "views" on the law, it was not asked to formulate proposals for reform.

8. Reports on Topics in the Attorney General's Requests

9. Reports in 1995

In 1995 the Commission published the following Reports on topics contained in the Commission's First Programme:

Report on Intoxication.

In the same year, the Commission published the following Reports on topics referred to it by the Attorney General:

Report on Interests of Vendor and Purchaser in Land during the period between Contract and Completion; and

An Examination of the Law of Bail.

10. Consultation Papers in 1995

In 1995 the Commission published the following Consultation Paper on a topic contained in the Commission's First Programme:

Consultation Paper on Intoxication as a Defence to a Criminal Offence.

A full list of the Commission's publications is to be found in the Appendix.

The Year's Work

11. Criminal Law

(i) Intoxication

One aspect of the Criminal Law which the Commission proposed to examine in its First Programme for Law Reform was the law relating to criminal responsibility including, inter alia, intoxication. In February 1995 the Commission published a Consultation Paper which examined the relevant law in Ireland and in other jurisdictions, discussed the various options and contained a provisional proposal for reform. Submissions were invited on the topic. On 7 July 1995 a group of experts, including a number of judges, were invited to a meeting in the Commission's offices. Then in November 1995 the final Report on Intoxication as a Defence to a Criminal Offence was published.

The essential recommendations were that:

- (i) express provision be made that self-induced intoxication should never afford a defence to a charge; and
- (ii) involuntary intoxication (as defined in the Report) should afford a defence.

(ii) Sentencing

The Commission continued its study of sentencing policy, with particular regard to proposals for achieving consistency in sentencing, and with a view to publishing a final report in 1996.

(iii) Homicide

The Commission continued its study of the law of homicide.

12. Criminal Procedure

Bail

In September 1995 the Commission published a report entitled An Examination of the Law of Bail. This report examined empirical evidence concerning bail offending as well as a number of prediction studies; surveyed the bail laws in Commonwealth and some Continental European jurisdictions; summarised the Irish law on bail and set out an alternative approach; and discussed methods of addressing bail offending other than pre-trial preventive detention.

13. Private International Law

Legalisation of Foreign Documents

In February 1995 the Commission published a report recommending that Ireland should become a party to the Hague Convention on the Abolition of the Requirement of Legalisation for Foreign Public Documents, 1961. The Report also contained proposals for the implementation of the Convention in Irish law. It recommended, inter alia, that the Department of Foreign Affairs be designated the sole competent authority for Ireland for the purposes of the Convention and that foreign public documents emanating from Convention states should be proved by way of the apostille system.

14. Land Law and Conveyancing Law

In April 1995 the Commission published its Report on Interests of Vendor and Purchaser in Land during the period between Contract and Completion. It recommended therein that when a binding contract for the sale of land has been entered into, the law should treat the beneficial ownership as having passed to the purchaser from the time the contract was made, subject to the condition subsequent that he or she completes the sale. This recommendation was made to tie in expressly with the recommendations in the earlier Report on Land Law and Conveyancing Law: (3) The Passing of Risk from Vendor to Purchaser (LRC 39-1991).

In 1995 the Working Group on Land Law and Conveyancing met on 15 occasions.

Among the topics considered by the Working Group throughout the year were

- the doctrine of parliamentary conveyance, in particular in relation to leasehold property;
- section 53(3) of the Succession Act, 1965;
- assents, in general and in connection with consents under the Family Home Protection Act, 1976;
- company seals;
- concurrent leases; and
- matters arising pursuant to the Landlord and Tenant (Ground Rent) Acts, 1978, namely the acquisition of the fee simple in flats, the acquisition of the fee simple in flying freeholds.
- The enforceability of positive freehold covenants.

15. Family Courts

In its First Programme, the Commission undertook to review a number of aspects of family law. This review also embraced "the question of the best type of judicial or court structure or structures appropriate to deal with the different matters which fall under the general heading of family law". The Commission felt that the issues involved went beyond the courtroom itself and encompassed, for example, ancillary services and procedures for diverting from the courts cases which may be more appropriately handled through alternative channels such as mediation. Such a review was considered to be of particular significance given the introduction of legislation providing for new or improved family law remedies which has imposed on the court system considerable additional burdens.

Following the publication in 1994 of the Consultation Paper on Family Courts, and the Seminar at the Commission Offices in 1994, substantial progress was made throughout 1995 on the preparation of a report, dealing with the procedures and processes of family law. The Commission expects to publish this report early in 1996.

16. Compensation for Personal Injuries

Structured Settlements

Topics which arise in considering the Attorney General's request of 1987 include provision for periodic payment of damages and the making of provisional awards in the context of personal injuries litigation. Having considered the observations of various experts in legal, insurance and administrative aspects of the subject, the Commission proceeded in 1995 to formulate a final report on the matter which is due to be published in 1996.

17. Privacy

Surveillance and the Interception of Communications

The Commission continued its work on the topic of privacy and concentrated particularly on the growing threat to the individual's personal privacy due to the proliferation of highly sophisticated methods of surveillance, visual and aural. The lack of any coherent corpus of law in this context is disturbing given the very new threats arising in a modern, technologically advanced and information-based society.

The Commission expects to publish its Consultation Paper on Surveillance and the Interception of Communications in 1996.

18. The Interpretation and Drafting of Legislation

Having prepared a preliminary draft of a Discussion Paper on the use of plain language in general, the Commission decided to concentrate on the method and style of drafting legislation and to broaden its study to include the interpretation of legislation by the Courts. A Consultation Paper is being prepared.

19. Licensing

The Commission continued to examine the question of the advisability of setting up a uniform procedural system to govern the diverse range of licences required by law for various activities. Such a system would embrace the making and processing of such licences, the decisions to grant or refuse them and the hearing of appeals.

20. Unidroit Convention on the International Return of Stolen or Illegally Exported Cultural Objects

Following the completion of the drafting of this Convention in June 1995, the Commission commenced consideration of the question of whether Ireland should ratify the Convention. It is anticipated that a consultation paper will be completed by mid 1996.

Action taken on Reports of the Commission during 1995

21. Occupiers' Liability Act, 1995

The Occupiers' Liability Act, 1995 largely followed the recommendations made by the Commission in its Report on Occupiers' Liability (LRC 46-1994). The Act differs in the duty it designates for occupiers vis-à-vis trespassers: the occupier shall not intentionally injure, or act with reckless disregard for, the person or property of trespassers (section 4), whereas the Commission had proposed the higher standard of intentional injury or "gross negligence" (Recommendation 9). In most respects the Act substantially implements the recommendations of the Commission.

22. Family Law Act, 1995

The wide-ranging Family Law Act, 1995 proposed a number of reforms in the context of court orders ancillary to decrees of nullity of marriage and legal separation granted both in the State and abroad. The Bill clarified other matters relating to marriage and strengthened the general law on maintenance. Consequently, the Bill drew on a number of Reports of the Commission: Report on the Age of Majority, the Age of Marriage and Some Connected Subjects (LRC 5-1983); Report on Jurisdiction in Proceedings for Nullity of Marriage, Recognition of Foreign Nullity Decrees and the Hague Convention on the Celebration and Recognition of the Validity of Marriages (LRC 20-1985); Report on Jactitation of Marriage and Related Matters (LRC 6-1983).

In recommending the imposition of a time-limit after which conveyances could not be declared void under the Family Home Protection Act, 1976 the Bill implemented a recommendation in the Commission's Report on Land Law and Conveyancing Law: (1) General Proposals (LRC 30-1989).

23. Criminal Law (Incest Proceedings) (no.2) Act, 1995

The Criminal Law (Incest Proceedings) (no.2) Act, 1995 refined the in camera rule applicable to incest proceedings broadly along lines proposed by the Commission, in its Report on Rape, for rape trials. In that Report the Commission also recommended that the anonymity provisions applicable to rape victims should extend to the victims of other sexual offences; the Act went so far as to provide absolute anonymity to victims of incest.

24. Powers of Attorney Bill, 1995

Part II of the Powers of Attorney Bill, 1995 introduces a scheme for Enduring Powers of Attorney (EPA), as recommended by the Commission in its Report on Land Law and Conveyancing Law: (2) Enduring Powers of Attorney. As recommended in that Report, the Bill provides for a non-mandatory standard-form EPA, and for a system of registration.

25. Defamation Bill, 1995

The Defamation Bill, 1995, a private members' bill, is based largely on the Commission's recommendations in two reports: Report on the Civil Law of Defamation (LRC 38-1991) and Report on the Crime of Libel (LRC 41-1991). In accordance with the former report, the Bill:

- abolishes the distinction between libel and slander;
- requires plaintiffs in defamation actions to prove that allegedly defamatory material is false;
- introduces a speedy new remedy - the declaratory judgment - in which damages are not awarded;
- provides that publishers of defamatory material are not liable to pay damages (other than for financial loss) where they exercise reasonable care;
- establishes statutory defences of absolute and qualified privilege, comment based on fact, and truth;
- sets out guidelines for the court in making an award of general damages; etc.

The Bill declines to follow the Commission's proposal that defamation of the dead be actionable.

In accordance with the latter report, the Bill replaces the offence of criminal libel with the new offence of criminal defamation.

The Bill was given a second reading in November 1995.

26. Domestic Violence Bill, 1995

The Domestic Violence Bill, 1995, in accordance with recommendations contained in the Commission's Report on Child Sexual Abuse, enables Health Boards to apply for a barring or protection order on behalf of a child.

Miscellaneous

27. Conference for Adoption of UNIDROIT Draft Convention on the International Return of Stolen or Illegally Exported Cultural Objects

A Preliminary Draft Convention on the Protection of Children has been prepared and will be submitted to the Diplomatic Conference in October 1996.
